The Comfederate Flag.

There is some difference of opinion relative to the new flag adopted by the Confederate Senate, though all objections to the House perhaps yield to a desire to be finally rid of a perplexing question. It consists of three stripes, white, bise and white, and the cross and stars of the Confederate battle flag are displayed on orimson ground, in place of the blue union of the old colors. This obvitates, in some measure, the objections arising from a similarity to the United States flag, and yet preserves the favorite colors, with the addition of the glorious Southers cross, which has waved in triumph over so many bloody fields.
